

Community Day Program (19th and 21st Sept 2015)

Microsoft community day program was organized on 19th and 21st September 2015 where the college students visited the schools in their locality and educated 8-9th class students about computer, internet, importance and significance of computer in education. This day the technical community across india joined hands for a social cause "DIGITAL CITIZENSHIP" as part of COMMUNITY DAY 2015 and make a difference.

As part of "Digital Citizenship" framework, students identified and visited schools which are economically challenged and have very little resources but still serving to the economically underprivileged. They interacted with the students and guided them on importance of education, available learning resources, steps to excel in future and tips & tricks for brighter opportunities. Above all, motivated them towards Computer Learning to optimize their career and studies.

The students are very responsive, and active which gave our college students immense pleasure to interact with them It was a very overwhelmed experience for all our college students as such kind of activity was held for the first time in college . All the students have uploaded their photos and videos on facebook link provided by Microsoft.
